DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-9, drawn to a recording apparatus, a reproducing apparatus, a file management method, a program, and a recording medium.

Group II, claim(s) 10-18, drawn to a recording apparatus, a reproducing apparatus, a file management method, a program, and a recording medium.

Group III, claim(s) 19-28, drawn to a recording apparatus, a reproducing apparatus, a file management method, a program, and a recording medium.

Group IV, claim(s) 29-36, drawn to a recording apparatus, a reproducing apparatus, a file management method, a program, and a recording medium.

Group V, claim(s) 37-42, drawn to a recording apparatus, a file management method, a program, and a recording medium.

Group VI, claim(s) 43-52, drawn to a recording apparatus, a file management method, a program, and a recording medium.

The inventions listed as Groups I-VI do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

Group I lists a file size, included in an index file entry, to determine whether or not this file is reproducible, and then a selectable user interface based on this result is presented;

Group II collectively records information about files to be reproduced at the same time into one entry of an index file;

Group III includes a link to a video file within an index file entry that is associated with the root directory;

Group IV utilizes a first entry including a pointer to an original entry, the first entry being in an index file, and the information in the first entry is presented as substitute information for the original entry;

Group V includes an index file with an entry associated with a first file contains a link to another entry associated with another file that needs to be updated when said first file is newly recorded, updated, or deleted; and,

Group VI includes an index file that further contains as an extension a private index file being unique to an application.

As demonstrated above, these groupings do not have the same special technical features. These separate special technical features do not correspond because they have different effects, since:

1.) Presenting a user interface based on the result of determining whether a file is reproducible]e allows to hide non-reproducible files;

2.) Using a single entry to collectively record the information about files to be reproduced at the same time allows are more compact representation in a user interface;

3.) Defining a link between the root directory of a recording medium and a video allows to show an intro-video when the recording medium is mounted or the power supply is turned on;

4.) To present the information in a first entry as substitute information for a linked original entry allows to store private annotations to various original files in a structured manner and to access all of them on request;

5.) Linking a first index file entry associated with a first file to another index file entry associated with another file that needs to be updated when said first file is newly recorded, updated, or deleted allows, e.g., to post-record audio in a first file and at the same time update the properties of the file containing the remaining dummy space;

6.) Further defining a private index file being unique to an application allows to present different file listings per application.

Thus, as demonstrated above, the inventions listed as Groups I-VI do not relate to a single general inventive concept because they lack the same or corresponding special technical features.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
